"What are you going to do in New Zealand?" one of them was asked, the questioner understanding that they were English nurses, but not understanding why, in any event, they should be going to New Zealand.

"We are going to begin housekeeping as soon as we get there," one of them answered with a blush, and both brides laughed.

CANVASS TODAY FOR FUND FOR OPERATING RAILROAD

Citizens' committees will today canvass Richmond to secure subscriptions for the purpose of purchasing the Arrangements have not been completed for the use of the old Broad Street depot. It is said that the owner is willing to do all in his power to aid the community by letting the new company have this terminal, but it is understood that the lessees of the property have not yet agreed to this. It is, howeverfi practically certain that this terminal will be used as a railroad company, under its power of eminent domain, has the power of condemning property necessary to its public purposes.

Whitman to Aid Salvation Army Drive.

[By Associated Press.]

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Former Governor Whitman, of New York, it was announced today, has accepted the invitation of Commander Evangeline Booth, of the Salvation Army, to be national chairman of that organization's home service fund campaign to raise $12,000,000 for charitable work.

Will Vote for Saloons. Will Vote for Saloons.

"But you can't vote because you will still be on the way home."

"But we can vote," several broke in at once, "on board ship, or in England, or wherever we are, we are going to have a right to say what we want."

"And do you want national prohibition?"

And do you want national prohibition."

A ruddy, black-eyed fellow with the N. Z. R. (New Zealand Rifles) on his shoulder, who had asked how long Richmond had been "dry." laughed.

"Some of us do, and some of us don't," he said enigmatically. "Coming over they talk a lot about voting the pubs' out, but when it comes to doing it, they'll like as not vote to keep them."

"I think most of us would rather leave it to State control instead of making it a national issue," said the engineer, and the others agreed with interested comment on the situation they would find "at home."

After Sustaining $3,100 Loss on Pro-hibition Officer, New York Con-cern Drops Policy.

The army recruiting station at $20 East Broad Street is in receipt of instructions from the War Department to make every effort to secure 50,000 recruits for the overseas army, in order to release that number of men now serving abroad whose continued retention in the service works a serious hardship upon their dependent relatives.

Enlistments in this special contingent are for three years in the cavairy, infantry, field artillery, medical department and corps of engineers.

These recruits will be sent to Camp Mende, Md, and will leave for France in detachments of about 1,600 men as rapidly as their proficiency may justify. In view of the thousands of men who were held in the United States and whose training had been practically completed at the date of the armistice no difficulty is anticipated in securing the desired number, in view of guarantee of overseas service and the exceptional educational advantages which the opportunity affords. The recruiting station, in addition to its enlistment work, is assisting numbers of men discharged from the service to obtain their bonus money with as little delay as possible.

Yesterday five men were sent to Fort Thomas, Ky. to complete their enlistment before being sent to Camp Mende, Md. for final training and embarant of the recruiting office of the recruiting station, in addition to its enlistment before being sent to Camp Mende, Md. for final training and embarant of the recruiting office of the recruiti After sustaining a loss of $3,100

The work performed by the Instructive Visiting Nurses' Association during the linduenza evidence a few months ago is regarded by Miss N. J. Minor, superintendent, as one of the greatest achievements in the organization's history. Miss Minor referred to the subject last night while discussing plans which are being made for the association's annual tag day next Tuesday.

"I think the I. V. N. A. has taken a place in the community which will never be forgotten, and I believe there are few things we can ask of it which will not be given gladly." Miss Minor said. "Had there been a full quota of private nurses available during the epidemic they would have been entirely inadequate to meet the demands. "Only visiting nurses were able to cope with the situation as a whole, and while we were crippled and handicapped, there is satisfaction in knowing that every case reported was visited within twenty-four hours. This includes cases outside the city, of which there were several.

"While mighty little nursing care could be given when things were at their worst, instruction was given each family, first aid treatment administered, and the patients who were in a serious condition were carred for until they could be removed to a hospital."

Visiting nurses paid visits to the number of 10,325 during October, when the epidemic was at its height. Out of a total of 2,975 patients cared for, 2,549 were influenza victims. December was another busy month for the association, 7,390 visits being paid to 1,489 patients, 950 of whom had influenza.

Validity of Ordance is Established By Judge Richardson Approving of $190 Fine.

H. Mercer Sheild, local druggist, will have to pay the city license tax of $2,500 a year, which was recently imposed by the City Council on all dispensers of intoxicating liquors in Richmond. The Hustings Court yesterday upheld the validity of the ordinance in a case in which Mr. Sheild was fined $100 and costs for not paying the tax.

Judge Richardson, in his opinion, held that the prohibition act in the acction dealing with permission to druggists to dispense liquor used language leading unmistakably to the conclusion that the Legislature intended the permission to be in the form of a license and that therefore the city had a right to require a tax for a license granted in the Hustings Court, especially where the State had provided no tax for the license.
